

Currivulum Vitae

Yen-Hsuan Ni, 倪衍玄
Distinguished Professor of Pediatrics,
Dean, College of Medicine,
National Taiwan University,
President, Taiwan Pediatric
Association

Dr. Yen-Hsuan Ni completed his MD and Ph.D education in National Taiwan University and received his pediatric residency training in Department of Pediatrics of NTU hospital. Later on, he did his post-doc at University of Connecticut Health Center, USA.

Dr. Ni's clinical expertise is in the field of Pediatric Gastroenterology, Hepatology, and Nutrition. His research and clinical interests are the followings: (1) pediatric liver diseases: viral hepatitis, NAFLD, hereditary diseases, and transplantation (2) gut microbiota, and (3) pediatric IBD. He has already published more than 300 peer-reviewed papers in the aforementioned areas. Because of his achievement, he has won many important academic awards either domestically or internationally.

Dr. Ni participated in many international academic activities; he is the President of 4th World Congress of Pediatric Gastroenterology, Hepatology, and Nutrition (Taipei, 2012), which convened more than 1800 delegates from 88 countries. He delivers more than 20 lectures every year in the international and domestic medical conference/symposium. He has been appointed to be the Dean of College of Medicine, NTU since 2019, and is now leading Taiwan's most prestigious medical college in research and education. In the meantime, he is also the President of Taiwan Pediatric Association.